

Matriculation Fee

What is the matriculation fee?

Instead of paying separate fees for such things as new student convocation, commencement, and hardcopy academic transcripts, UNC Charlotte students pay a matriculation fee and receive these and other services at no charge. Students are charged the matriculation fee upon entry into a baccalaureate, graduate certificate/master's, and doctoral program at UNC Charlotte.

Who is a matriculated student?

A matriculated student is one who is both admitted and enrolled at UNC Charlotte in a degree or certificate program. A student's "matriculation term" is the first term in which a student is both admitted and registered for classes at UNC Charlotte.

How much is the fee?

Beginning in Fall 2015, the fee for new students is $100. Any student enrolled prior to Fall 2015 will be assessed a $50 fee.

If a student drops all classes, will a matriculation fee be assessed?

Students who drop all classes on the first day of the term or after will be assessed the matriculation fee. Students who drop all classes prior to the first day of the term will NOT be assessed the fee.

Will students pay the fee again if they change from undergraduate to graduate level studies?

Yes. Students will pay the fee upon entry into a new certificate/master's program as well as entry into a doctoral program. Graduate students who enroll in certificate and master's programs will pay the fee once, unless they begin study in a doctoral program whereas they will pay the fee again.

Do readmitted students pay the matriculation fee?

Previously matriculated students who enroll in a baccalaureate, graduate certificate/master's, and doctoral program will be charged the matriculation fee.
